Find Slain Body of Maniac's Wife

KILLED BEFORE SCHOOL BLOWN UP, IS BELIEF

Woman Discovered in Hog Crate with Family Jewelry and Silverware

45 NOW DYNAMITE TOLL

State Police Say Farmer's Wife Murdered Because of Her Knowledge

Bath, Mich., May 19—Andrew Kehoe, madman-murderer, killed his wife, Nellie, with his own hands and stuffed her body in a hog-crate before he dynamited either his home or the Bath consolidated district school, snuffing out 45 lives.

This was revealed today when investigators found the body of Mrs. Kehoe in an outbuilding near where the farmhouse stood. The skull had been crushed and the body put in a hog crate with family silverware, jewelry and valuables.

The wife's body was the forty-fifth to be found, with indications that still more will be disclosed as rescuers continued their labor.

Others May Die

It is feared some of the injured in Lansing hospitals will die.

Investigators believe Mrs. Kehoe was killed because she knew of her madman-husband's plans. State police say she could not have helped but know, since the farmhouse was wired in every part and dynamite was attached to the wires.

About 75 others were injured, many seriously.

This little farming community, yesterday the object of curious thousands, today was left virtually deserted to mourn its dead.

It is feared that others in Lansing hospitals may die.

It is believed all the dead have been removed from the consolidated district school, where Andrew Kehoe, a farmer, yesterday exploded several charges of dynamite in revenge for high taxes which forced foreclosure of his farm.

Kehoe was killed as was Supt. E. E. Huyck when dynamite exploded under Huyck's car. The superintendent had just climbed in and Kehoe had run from the school house ruins to catch up with the man whom he blamed for his dilemma.

Where Kehoe got he dynamite that blasted the school, his farm and Huyck's automobile has not been determined.

One theory is that he stole it from road construction camps nearby.

Another report was that it had been sold to him by the state farm bureau.

Would Have Killed All

Six hundred pounds of dynamite and 250 pounds of gun powder was found in the school after the explosion. It had failed to go off. If it had, all of the 325 children in the school would have been killed state police say.

The fact that the school term closed today is believed to have cut down the toll. Higher classes were holding examinations and many of the students had escaped the tests through high grades. Graduation exercises were to have been held tonight.

Early plans for a single public funeral for the blast victims have been given up and parents are going ahead arranging for separate and sometimes double funerals for children.

It is estimated that upward of 50.

BLUES WIN WAR WHEN ENEMY IS ANNIHILATED

Battle of New England Virtually Ended; Black's Position Is Hopeless

Camp Adams, Newport, R. I., May 19—"The Battle of New England" is virtually ended and the "Blues" won the "war" when they pocketed 13,000 troops landed by the "Black" armada and annihilated them with heavy artillery fire, it was unofficially announced today.

Ten "enemy" transports with 20,000 men on board were theoretically sunk during the engagement.

The nine forts along the coast were reduced 50 per cent by battleship fire. Losses were heavy on both sides.

At noon today the war game was practically over. The principal expeditionary force of 13,000 men that had been landed on the beaches east of Narragansett Bay over a front of 20 miles had been "boxed" by the five divisions of defensive troops and from a military standpoint the position of the "enemy" was "hopeless."

Dry 'Dark Horse'

James M. Doran, chief of the technical division of the prohibition bureau, Washington, has been termed the "dark horse" entry for the post of permanent prohibition commissioner.

DORAN STANDS HIGH TO GET PROHIBITION POST

Andrews and Aides Virtually Agree To Recommend Chemist's Appointment

Washington, May 19—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was about ready today to announce the appointment of a new federal prohibition commissioner.

The government's "dry war council" headed by Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition chief, after a lengthy conference virtually agreed to recommend the appointment of Dr. James M. Doran of St. Paul, and since 1907 a government chemist.

Mellon already has been advised of the probable recommendation of his aides. At the treasury it was anticipated that the announcement of a permanent commissioner would be made possibly today or within a week.

If Doran is appointed it means the elimination of Maj. Roy A. Haynes of Ohio from any control of the government's prohibition policies. Haynes is now acting commissioner. It was said that he has packed up his personal papers and is preparing to vacate his office at the prohibition unit.

Although the Anti-Saloon League has fought for the appointment of Haynes and even today had not given up putting him at the helm of the dry navy, it was said that this organization would not object seriously to Doran's selection.

Cause of the fire is not yet known. Police are investigating an incendiary theory.

HUSBAND, WIFE AND DAUGHTER CRASH VICTIMS

Toll at Hazel-st Crossing, Upper Sandusky, Is Increased

THREE DIE, TWO HURT

Clair Streby, Cadillac, Mich., His Family and Brother in Touring Car

Upper Sandusky, May 19—Three lives, man, wife and infant daughter, and two serious injury cases were added to the grade crossing toll at the Pennsylvania Railroad-Hazel-st intersection here at 8:50 o'clock this morning.

Clair E. Streby, 25, his wife, Gertrude, 27, their infant daughter Betty Jane and four-year-old son, Wallace all of Cadillac, Mich., with Clair's brother, Guy A. Streby, 28, Lovell, five miles north of here, driving south in a Chevrolet touring car pulled onto the tracks at the unprotected Hazel-st crossing in the path of a westbound freight train.

Clair, Gertrude and the infant daughter were thrown free of the wreckage with the other two, but died before medical aid could be administered.

Rushed to Columbus

Guy A. and Wallace were seriously injured and were rushed to Grant Hospital, Columbus, in Bingman's ambulance.

Death's merciless slash in the accident leaves but two members of a family of five alive, the four-year-old boy in Grant Hospital, Columbus, with but slight chance for recovery and a girl, Loretta, in Cadillac, Mich.

Skull fractures caused the death of the father and the infant daughter. The mother sustained a broken right leg and several deep cuts. The four-year-old youth suffered fractures in both limbs and a deep face cut. The cut was bandaged by Drs. Bowman and Bowman before the trip to Columbus started. Guy A. suffered internal injuries. Local doctors feel that he will be the lone survivor of the crash.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the accident is unknown. The crash was witnessed by Mrs. Charles Read and Albert Shambaugh.

MALONEY-SHARKEY BOUT TO BE STAGED FRIDAY

Rickard Postpones Fight at Yankee Stadium Because of Rain

New York, May 19—Tex Rickard announced this morning that he had postponed the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey heavyweight elimination championship final, scheduled for tonight at the Yankee stadium, because of rain. The bout will be held tomorrow night, weather permitting.

Sharkey and Maloney, hated rivals from Boston, were only three hours away from the official weighing in ceremonies when the postponement was announced. Both had dried out overnight and were ready for the scales when the blow fell. Sharkey weighed about 190 pounds this morning, Maloney about 202.

The latter, a slight favorite in the betting, was expected to suffer more by the postponement than Sharkey, as Jimmy takes on weight easily and may have to undergo some severe measures to keep to the fighting weight he has set for himself.

Advance reports were to the effect that between 50,000 and 60,000 fans would view the fight.

Twenty-Seven More Towns Being Abandoned Before Flood

SOUTHERN PART OF LOUISIANA TO BE COVERED

Thousands of Persons Added to Multitude Forced To Evacuate Homes

Baton Rouge, La., May 19—With five weeks' disaster behind and 10 days more ahead, the flood waters of the Mississippi drove added thousands from the farms and homes today in the rich Atchafalaya basin of southern Louisiana.

More than 400 square miles are being evacuated under orders broadcast last night from the office of State Relief Director John M. Parker. Twenty-seven towns and villages and hundreds of miles of farming country in St. Martin, Evangeline and Iberville Parishes are being abandoned before the flood waters rolling down behind the west Levees of the Atchafalaya from the Bayou Des Glaises section and from the Melville crevasse.

Eleven to 13 feet of water at Morgan City, in St. Mary Parish, is predicted by May 27. The Gulf of Mexico is the southern border of this parish.

Fight Off Waters

While the great rescue machine which has held loss of life to a minimum during the overwhelming rush of water through Louisiana during the last 10 days concentrated today upon the southern end of the state thousands of unconquerable citizens of Pointe Coupee Parish still fought off the Mississippi and Atchafalaya at half a dozen points within a 50-mile radius of Baton Rouge. Torras, Woodside, McCrea, Morganza and Plaquemine Point are the key words in the levee patrol headquarters. A crevasse of serious proportions is threatened at each point. The first three are on the Atchafalaya, the last two on the Mississippi. Morganza on the east bank 30 miles north of Baton Rouge and Plaquemine Point 18 miles below on the east bank.

So threatening are the Atchafalaya danger spots that plans to shift the operating base of the Bayou Des Glaises rescue fleet from the Old River to Baton Rouge have been temporarily abandoned. Secretary of Commerce Hoover visited the fleet yesterday. He had outlined a plan to bring the entire armada of some 300 craft southward. After examining the condition of the McCrea and Torras levees, and conferring with army engineers in the immediate vicinity of the water-soaked lakes, the plan was discarded.

Preparing State

Today the generalissimo of the national relief organization is touring the extreme southern end of the state to get that section prepared for the avalanche of water which is destined to hit it out before June.

Leaving Baton Rouge by special train for New Orleans, Secretary Hoover and a party of national Red Cross officers planned to leave New Orleans late this afternoon for Alexandria, by way of Morgan City. After a day in the western Louisiana refugee headquarters, Secretary Hoover will return to Baton Rouge. Because of washed out railroads between the Mississippi River and the hill country 50 miles to the west, the special train carrying the moving relief headquarters will travel some 400 miles between Baton Rouge and Alexandria. Under normal conditions the distance would be less than 150 miles.

The prediction of meteorologists that the Bayou Des Glaises breaks would release the bulk of the Mississippi channel waters into the heart of the nation's cane sugar belt was substantiated today by further falls in the river stages all along the Mississippi between Angola, at the mouth of the Old River, and New Orleans.

LOCAL EAGLES PLAN TRIP TO STATE MEETING

Aerie Will Charter Special Train to Youngstown; Boost Abel for President

Buckeye Aerie, No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, completed arrangements for chartering a special train to carry its delegation to the annual state convention at it weekly session here last night in the Eagles building on W. Center-st. John Abel, secretary of the local lodge, is slated for election as state president at the convention which will be held at Youngstown opening Sunday, June 19 and closing the following Wednesday.

The special train for the Marion delegation will leave here early on the morning of June 22 and return following the day's program, which will include a street parade with lodges from all parts of the state participating. The drum corps and band of Buckeye Aerie will head the Marion lodge members in the parade.

Six Delegations

Six delegations representing Buckeye Aerie will go to Youngstown Sunday, June 19, in order to be present at all of the convention sessions.

Arrangements for the special train are in charge of a committee consisting of 15 past worthy presidents of Buckeye Aerie. It is expected that approximately 200 members of the lodge will make the trip.

One candidate was initiated and 30 applications for membership received at last night's meeting. Plans were completed for initiation of a large class of candidates next Wednesday night. It will be known as the "John Abel class," in honor of the lodge secretary, who has served in that capacity about 10 years.

Enjoy Fish Dinner

Following the business meeting a fish dinner was served. Secretary Abel and his brother, S. N. Abel, returned Tuesday from a fishing trip to the Canadian lake district, and the fish brought back by them made up most of the supply for the dinner. About 150 members of the lodge were guests at the dinner.

GERM CAUSING TRACHOMA IS FINALLY ISOLATED

Discvery Announced by Rockefeller Institute Man at Medical Association

Washington, May 19—One of the greatest medical discoveries of recent years has been made by Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, attached to the Rockefeller Institute, in the isolation of the germ that causes trachoma, scientists attending the American Medical Association convention declared today.

Dr. Noguchi revealed that he had isolated the dread germ in an address before hundreds of eye specialists, who cheered him when the announcement was made. The disease has caused blindness to untold thousands, and is particularly prevalent even today among American Indians, and natives of Africa, Asia and remote parts of the earth. It has long baffled medical science.

The Rockefeller Institute has been conducting experiments concerning it since 1909.

Dr. Noguchi succeeded, he told the convention, in isolating the microorganism of trachoma, and transferring it from an afflicted Indian patient to a monkey. He also succeeded in inducing it by inoculation, and later developed it in a culture.

Dr. Hubert Work, now a cabinet officer, and formerly president of the A. M. A., highly praised Dr. Noguchi's discovery.

"If we have found the cause we will find the cure," he said, pointing out that the isolation of the organism is the major step in the fight to overcome disease.

Trachoma is not particularly prevalent among white races today but it has taken enormous toll of the black, red and yellow.

EFFORT FAILS

Mrs. Vanderbilt Expected To Be Granted Decree within Fortnight

Paris, May 19—The final attempt of the Paris courts to effect a reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, II, failed today and it is expected that a divorce decree will be granted Mrs. Vanderbilt within a fortnight.

The judge called Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt before him without their lawyers. His formal efforts at reconciliation lasted but five minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt left the Palais De Justice by a backdoor, one of the lawyers advising the International News Service there had been no reconciliation.

Marion Steam Shovel Co. Sends Piston Valve to Dallas, Texas

Air mail delivery on articles between Marion and Dallas, Tex., comes high in more ways than one, it was demonstrated early this week when the Marion Steam Shovel Co. found it necessary to send a piston valve to that city in the quickest possible way. While the parcel weighed only 10½ pounds and its value was less than $10 the postage amounted to $52.80.

The package left Marion at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning for Cleveland, by train, arriving in that city at 11:25. It left the air field in Cleveland at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning arriving in Chicago to connect with the air service for Dallas at 5 o'clock and arriving in Dallas at 5 o'clock last night.

Julia Claussen, Metropolitan Opera Star, who protects her voice, writes:

"When I decided to smoke cigarettes, I looked about to see which brand was in favor with most men. The answer was easy to find. I noticed that practically all the men at the opera were smoking Lucky Strikes. I learned from them that this cigarette, delightful in flavor, left their voices in splendid shape for their singing. So I tried Lucky Strikes and knew that the men were correct in their judgment. I am enthusiastic about their flavor and the fact that they do not affect my voice." Julia Claussen

RAIN HALTS WORK ON ADDITION TO ST. MARY'S

Concrete Poured for Basement Walls on $25,000 Structure; Brick on Ground

Continued rain has practically stopped work on the new $25,000 addition being built to St. Mary's school on N. Prospect-st. The basement has been dug and the concrete basement walls have been poured. Brick for the walls are on the ground and with several weeks of dry weather rapid progress will be made, the contractor said today.

The addition will be two stories high with a cemented basement and will provide two school rooms, one on each floor. The congested condition of the school has made the erection of the addition necessary. It is the ambition of Rev. F. X. Cotter to have the building completed and equipped with desks by the opening of school in September.

LIVE POULTRY TRAFFIC MAY INCREASE HERE

Boost Would Result from Selection of Erie as New York Terminal

A noteworthy increase in poultry traffic through Marion over the Erie Railroad will take place should that road be selected as a terminal point in New York City for live poultry transit, according to Frank X. Mudd, of Chicago, president of the Live Poultry Transit Co.

The question is now before the leading carriers in the East, said Mr. Mudd, who was in Kenton yesterday to assist in the annual public awarding of medals to honor students in public and parochial schools.

It is probable that the problem will be decided in the near future, Mr. Mudd stated.

Poultry traffic through Marion is heavier this year than ever before and, should the terminal be established at New York, will be even greater. This city is on the direct line of the Erie between Chicago and New York.

Attend Meeting

F. A. Sparks, track supervisor of the Toledo Division of the Hocking Valley, and C. E. Sargent, Marion freight agent of the Hocking, were in Fostoria yesterday, in attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the freight claim prevention committee of the Toledo Division.

Agents from every station along the Hocking Valley Toledo Division were present at the meeting.

Roller Bearings

Announcement that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway would begin the operation of roller bearing trains has caused widespread comment in railroad circles throughout the country. Doubts as to the practicality of roller bearings on heavy steel cars have been dissipated by the Milwaukee's announcement that this innovation has been decided upon only after tests lasting two years.

The electric locomotive has an advantage over the steam engine in the celerity with which it will start a long train. With the introduction of roller bearings the steam engine ceases to be a laggard.

Visits in Marion

I. C. Christian, road foreman of engines on the Hocking Valley, was a visitor in Marion yesterday.

MARION COUNTY MEN TO ATTEND STOCK SHOW

Delegation of Local Farmers To Visit Exhibit at Fostoria

Arrangements are being made for a large delegation of Marion County farmers to attend a livestock exhibit which will be held at Fostoria on May 31 by the Ohio Experiment Station located at Wooster.

Plans for the trip are in charge of Banks Collings, temporary Marion County farm agent.

Especial interest will be centered in an exhibit of lambs from the experiment station, as experts will be on hand to explain method of feeding used for this class of stock. The market price of lambs is now at a high figure, making that branch of stock raising unusually profitable when the feeding problem is solved.

Native Ohio mutton and fine-wool lambs have been discounted in the past as feeders because of that tendency to be infected with internal parasites, particularly stomach worms, stock men state.

Treated at Station

The lambs to be exhibited at Fostoria were fed and treated for stomach worms at the Wooster station last winter and the methods used will be explained to farmers attending the exhibit.

Similar exhibits will be made at Wooster, May 27 at Bellefontaine, June 2 and at Circleville, June 4.

In addition to the lambs, totaling 84 head, several lots of calves and steers, numbering 110 head, and 18 lots of lambs, totaling 118 head, will be shown At the conclusion of the Circleville exhibit all of the livestock will be sold.

Grand Jury Returns 17 Indictments Against 11 Persons

EIGHT RESULT FROM THEFTS OF FARM PROPERTY

Howard A. Stevens Indicted on Charges of Embezzling $9,294.73

Seventeen indictments against 11 persons were returned by the Marion county Grand Jury shortly after noon today when it filed a report of its final session with Judge B. Scofield.

Eight of those indicted were the men arrested in the recent round-up of suspects in the series of farm robberies committed in Marion County during the past year.

An indictment was also returned against Howard A. Stevens, Marion attorney who is accused of having embezzled $9,294.73 from the estate of the late Charles F. Ritter of Morral, while serving as executor of the Ritter will.

Face Two Charges

Raymond Needles and Pearl McAdams alleged automobile thieves, face two indictments each, one charging them with stealing a Chevrolet sedan from William B. Strayer and the other carrying concealed weapons.

All of the eight alleged members of a farm robbery band were indicted on charge of grand larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property. More than one indictment was returned against several of the men. Others are Orville Gibson, James Henry, O. C. "Shorty" Longfellow, John Burts, Lester Bird, Paul Bird, Clyde Rogers and Edward "Soapy" Shafer.

List of Thefts

Robberies listed in the indictments are as follows: 25 hogs, value $250, stolen from Otis Johnson; seven sheep, value $70, stolen from James Guthery; 50 chickens, stolen from Herbert Blue, 75 chickens, 11 lambs, stolen from Charles Rose, $110; eight hogs, stolen from C. P. Harper, $80; 90 chickens, stolen from Ernest Jerew, $125.

It is expected that the indicted men will be arraigned within the next few days, as the court expects to have all the cases disposed of before June 1.

The grand jury, which held its first session on May 9 and returned six indictments against two men, was dismissed by Judge Scofield after he accepted today's report.

Patrolman Powell Explains Cause of Colored Optic

A mystery of dark proportions confronts the city. When Bert Powell of the city police force appeared on the streets this morning it was with one of his eyes in deep mourning. The mystery now is from whence did Bert acquire the decoration.

A scuffle with a friend in a S. Main-st store is given by Bert as the source of the discolored optic. Other opinions are being entertained. Great credit is being given the decorated patrolman, however, for not springing the antiquated "edge of the door in the dark" story.

There also is some speculation in various parts of the uptown district, as to the appearance of the other fellow. In any event and what ever the source, the patrolman is bearing his wounds bravely and is sticking to his story of the scuffle with a friend.

Two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Martin, of Columbus, and Mrs. Samuel McNeal, of Akron, and one brother, John Curren, of Cardington, also survive.

both of here. They stated that the Streby car slowed down before pulling onto the tracks. Engineer B. M. Beible stated that he did not see the car. He brought the train to a stop with the engine two blocks from the accident scene. The engine pilot struck the rear of the automobile and forced the car between the tracks of the double-track line. Witnesses say the car was equipped with side-curtains.

Tragedy stalked where hope reigned in the accident this morning. Until a few weeks ago, Guy Streby had been employed at Cleveland. He returned to live with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Streby at Lovell when he fell ill with tuberculosis. Entrance to the state hospital at Mt. Vernon had been recently granted him and he was being taken there today. His determined effort to regain his health met a seemingly superhuman obstacle in the Hazel-st crash.

Parents Survive

Survivors of the crash victims in the community are: Mr and Mrs. Walter Streby, Lovell, parents of Clair; Miss Savilla Streby, Upper Sandusky, his aunt; Mrs. Ray Hall, Upper Sandusky, his half-sister; Mr and Mrs. Matthew Fulk, Forest, are the parents of Mrs. Streby.

Death of three persons at the crossing on Hazel-st increases the toll there to four since last Christmas. Charles Thomas was killed on Feb. 22. Two Upper Sandusky youths escaped without injury in a crash several weeks later. Council members here recently accepted a proposal of the railroad company to place signal lights at the crossing. This installation, however, has not yet taken place.

Coroner L. W. Naus made an investigation of the crash this morning but announced that he was not ready to make a formal decision.

264 CONTRIBUTIONS TO RELIEF FUND REPORTED

Balance of $182.28 Above Quota Being Held for Emergency Work

A complete report of collection of Mississippi flood relief funds in Marion County, compiled from records at Red Cross headquarters shows that there was a total of 264 contributions coming from individuals churches and various organizations.

Due to the fact that many persons contributed to collections at churches, factories and other places which reported only the total donations, no definite figure is available to show how many citizens had a part in making up the fund. It is estimated, however, that the number was between 2,000 and 3,000.

The county's quota as fixed by the National Red Cross was $4,200 and two checks covering this amount were mailed to officers in charge of the flood relief work. There is a balance of $182.28 in the Red Cross treasury which will be held as an emergency fund for future relief purposes. Contributions are still coming in occasionally and it is expected that the emergency fund will be considerably increased.

The list of amounts contributed during the relief fund campaign ranged from $379, which came from the Epworth Church and Sunday school, down to many donations of $1 each.

000 persons viewed the scene of the disaster after reports had swept the countryside. From noon until late at night a steady stream of machines, bearing cargoes of sightseers moved out the highway from Lansing.

Supplies Sold Out

On the whole, this traffic ran smoothly in the one-way lanes fixed by a squad of state troopers.

As a result of the influx, Bath, a village of 325, was caught unawares. Before evening cigarets could not be obtained and later it became impossible to buy food or soft drinks.

Before the hordes of cars swarmed into Bath yesterday, it is doubtful whether it had ever attracted more than a score of transients at a time.

Practically every home in the 36 square miles of Bath township is mourning for a child or a grandchild listed among the 43 victims.

Graduation exercises that were to have been held in the town hall tonight have been called off. Instead the hall will witness an inquest into the disaster set for today but postponed until Monday.

The school picnic that was to have been held in Kehoe's Wood today will never be held and the food that mothers had prepared for the basket lunches is being eaten by the wachers of the dead.

Story Pieced Together

The story of the disaster pieced together by state police and Clinton County officers is practically complete. Its most startling feature is proof that Kehoe had intended to take the life of every child of school age in Bath Township. Only an accident, a flaw in the expert workmanship of Kehoe's wiring, prevented the explosion of an additional 600 pounds of dynamite and 250 pounds of gun powder he had planted under the south and east wings of the building.

Bomb experts of the state police declare that if all the explosives had ignited when Kehoe's 98-cent alarm clock made the electric contact that blew up the north wing every child in the building and any one within several hundred feet would have been killed instantly.

Why the disaster Kehoe planned was not complete may never be known. The state police and Clinton County authorities believe there was a short circuit in the wires leading from the time clock to the bags and boxes of gun powder and dynamite.

Plans Took Time

Deaths and fatal injuries resulting from the school blast were limited to pupils of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, which were in the northwest demolished wing. Had explosives under the south wing ignited, the children in the kindergarten and first and second grades would have been the principal victims.

The amount of work and planning involved in the series of explosions at the Kehoe farm and the school indicates a design that required weeks if not months in preparation. Mr. and Mrs. David Harte, who live across the road from the Kehoe farm believe the plot had been afoot for months and that it explains the fact that Kehoe had done no work on his farm this spring.

No motive except a smouldering spite against the school has been found for Kehoe's act. The theory that there was a shortage in his accounts as school treasurer is disproved, according to other members of the board, by an audit made last week.

In the consolidated school, Kehoe saw a cause for the poverty that prevented him from paying off a mortgage on his farm, a mortgage that was being foreclosed. He claimed the high school taxes took all his funds so that he could not pay interest on the mortgage.

For at least 10 days, David Harte says, Kehoe had been busy about his farm buildings, stringing twisted pairs of wires to every part of them. Monday they saw him carrying straw into the tool shed, a building where there is no use for straw. When he found opportunity to wire the basement of the school building and plant his hundreds of pounds of gun powder and dynamite no one is able to guess. The work was carefully done, some of the connections being soldered. It would have taken all of one night.

Called About Picnic

That he was not in the building Tuesday night is considered certain. There was a parent-teachers association meeting then, and it is believed that he would have been observed had he been in the building.

By yesterday morning all his plans were carried out. His farm buildings were covered with hundreds of feet of wires leading to spark plugs that had been inserted at the top of cans nearly filled with gasoline. The school was wired and the time clock set. Even his automobile is believed to have been wired.

"If you are going to have a picnic, you would best have it right away," Kehoe replied.

A few minutes later the first of the explosions started.

OLNEY AVENUE SCHOOL ENTERTAINS PARENTS

157 Students Receive Reading Certificates; Program Given by Pupils

Of a total enrollment of 264 pupils, 157 received reading certificates at a reception for parents and other guests last night at Olney Avenue School Building. The certificate signified that the child had read all the books authorized by the board of control and the Ohio State Teachers' Association.

A few words of commendation were given by Miss Luella M. Scholl, principal of the building, in farewell to the seventh grade students who next year will enter junior high school work. The class responded with a song of farewell, sung to the melody of "Auld Lang Syne." Miss Katherine Rinehart gave original toasts which included all teachers of the building.

During the program hour, which opened with the singing of "My Flag" by students of the school and the flag salute, pupils of grades two and three entertained with vocal numbers. Mary K. Hogan and Jane Wires gave an amusing reading after which Mary Frances Schooley was heard in a piano solo. Recitations were given by Virginia Stillman, Olive Kenyon, Donald Maskill, Martha Trowbridge, Martha Cook and Robert Foltz and a reading by Yvonne Cory. Piano selections were played as solos by Dorothy Hutt and Donald Eggleston. "Sing a Song of Six pence," a playlet, was presented by pupils of the first grade after which the fourth grade students entertained with a song.

SATURDAY LAST DAY TO SECURE CIGARET LICENSE

Time Extension Granted Dealers in County by Auditor Thomas

Cigaret dealers who expect to continue in business in Marion County during the next 12 months must obtain licenses before Saturday, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas stated today.

Last year 120 licenses were issued and thus far only about 60 per cent of that number have applied for licenses, the auditor says. Although today had been announced as the final day for applications, the auditor has granted an extension until Saturday afternoon when his office closes.

A heavy fine is the penalty provided for any dealer who attempts to sell cigarets without a license, Thomas states.

CLUB ENDS YEAR

Davids Street Community Organization Holds Meet

Members of the Davids Street Community Club closed their year with an entertaining program Tuesday night at the school building. A large audience heard the program.

Pupils of the First Grade, of which Mrs. Carrie Durr is teacher, opened the program with devotional services and a patriotic drill. Howard Betz gave a recitation and Mrs. Amos Koons entertained with two numbers on the accordion, "My Wild Irish Rose" and a medley of Southern melodies. A dialogue, "A Mistake," given by Gerald Fleming, Mary Alice Grubaugh and Mary Alice Hall, was followed by the dramatized presentation of "My Country 'tis of Thee," with accordion accompaniment played by Mrs. Koons.

Pupils of the fourth grade taught by Miss Catherine Hecker gave an exercise "The Spelling Class," and girls of the fifth grade presented "Music of America." A pantomime by the boys of the fifth grade concluded the program. Miss Bertha Orians is teacher of the fifth grade.

"KONJOLA ENDED EVERY ACHE AND PAIN THAT I HAD"

ally explained to crowds of Marion people daily by the Konjola Man at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump & Sams), 121 South Main St., this city. At the same time, report after report is being received from larger cities, already visited by the Konjola Man, in which people tell about the work of this advanced medicine. Just recently Mr. George Jones, 521 South Isabella St., Springfield, Ohio, made the following statement about Konjola.

"Konjola ended every ache and pain that I had," said Mr. Jones, "and restored my health in general.

"I had been suffering with neuritis for years. The leaders in my neck and shoulders seemed to draw and pull, so that I couldn't turn my head without intense pain. Many times I felt like every nerve in my back was being torn loose. I also had aches and pains in my legs.

"I started taking Konjola and this medicine made a great change in me the second day. I noticed I could sleep better and the pains were easing up. Now I am entirely out of misery and my shoulders and hips are free of pains. I have never had a single attack of neuritis since I took my first bottle of Konjola over a month ago. After such wonderful relief, I am recommending this medicine every chance I get."

Konjola is the preparation containing juices extracted from twenty-two natural plants. This new compound invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to better activity, thus cleansing the system of toxic poisons which cause rheumatism and neuritis. Many people say this medicine seems to act like magic.

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump & Sams), 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"He who is guilty believes all men speak ill of him."

It may be true, as Carrie Chapman Catt contends, that man stole his trousers from the women, but it was so long ago that he probably didn't find any cigarets in the pockets.

Even should it develop that the dissension in the Bellanca camp is due in part to cold feet, we would be the last to utter a taunt. There's an awful lot of water between New York and Paris.

Somebody should whisper into the ear of the weatherman that this isn't March or April, but May. It's time the house-painters and the landscape gardeners had a chance at a livelihood.

Out in Kansas City, the United States circuit court of appeals has decided that the use of liquor is not evidence of moral turpitude, but the sad fact remains that it mighty often leads to it.

The provision that a non-resident must wait three days before he can get his permit to take a drink in Ontario, puts an awful crimp in the hopes of those who were looking ahead to Sunday excursions to Detroit, the coming summer.

It may be just as well that those lions are merely cubs. Otherwise Mr. Coolidge might be tempted to turn them loose on some of the fellows who are trying to smoke him out regarding his plans for 1928.

St. John Irvine says "the prime defect in democracy is that those who lead it too often have to get down on their hands and knees and crawl to it." Can it be that St. John has never heard of the office seeking the man or of those patriots who stand coldly aloof and consent to the use of their names only at the "earnest solicitation of a large number of friends?"

An exchange says that a people may be judged by the men they elect to office. If this gets noised about and doesn't cause voters to turn out 100 per cent. strong for new deals, it may be put down that our electorates are hopeless.

We hope the weather people will take due notice of the fact that the time is long since past for the turning on of a little more heat. We do not care particularly for the heat, but we would like to get some use out of the straw hat we bought last fall at a bargain and carried over in the anticipation of the coming of spring.

The Hen and the Whistle.

While we can not say that we never would have had the locomotive whistle had it not been for the hen, there is good authority for the statement that the hen hastened its coming.

Back in the early days of railroading when all country roads were crossed at grade, as almost all of them still are in this county, engineers had no way of signaling their approach to a crossing save by blowing a big tin horn, which served well enough if the engineers had sufficient lung capacity and the rattle of the horse-drawn wagon or the ox cart approaching the crossing along the highway was not so great as to drown out the noise of the horn.

The invention of the whistle for locomotive use is told in this way by Mechanical Draftsman E. W. Merdereau, of the Maine Central railroad, who says that this bit of railroad history was imparted to him by a one-time high railroad official.

One day in the spring of 1833, a farmer approached a railroad crossing on his way to market with a load of eggs. The engineer saw him, and blew his horn, but for some reason the farmer did not hear it, with the result that the train and the cart met at the crossing and the surrounding landscape was showered with pieces of wagon, a dead horse and an unsalable omelet.

The final outcome of the accident was that the railroad had to pay the farmer, who escaped by jumping, the value of the horse and wagon and the eggs, and the result was that a director of the company, Ashland Baxter, went to Alton Grange, the home of George Stephenson, to see if he could not invent something which would make more noise than the tin horns then in use. Stephenson went to work and soon devised a contrivance which he attached to the engine boiler through which he "permitted steam to escape and made a deafening noise." The idea was adopted at once and in its perfected form we have the present-day locomotive whistle.

There was need of a whistle, and the whistle was invented. And such is the story of the march of progress. Something is needed. There may be delay in meeting the need, but sooner or later the need is met. There is always the man who sooner or later comes along, just as there always is a man who arises or is developed to meet any great crisis which may come to a community or a people. The inventive genius of man reaches the solution in the one case, just as the faith, or the courage, or the patriotism, or whatever it may take, comes to meet the other.

Simply Staggering Casualties.

The total dead of the United States in the World war—those killed in action, those who died as the result of wounds received in action and those who died from disease—was 126,000. The wounded numbered 234,300. Thus out total casualties in the awful struggle were 360,300.

While these casualties are far below those sustained by several of the Allies, they are none the less staggering. They constitute a loss of life and impairment of man power which no nation can afford to sustain. They brought home to us the awful horror of modern warfare as losses sustained by other nations, no matter how friendly we may have been toward such nations and how much interested in their success, never would have done. Our losses have made a theme for discussion by orators, for articles by writers, for arguments by the opponents of warfare and will continue so to be for years to come.

Yet there is in progress a war against humanity which threatens to make commonplace, by comparison, the casualties which we sustained in the World war. It has already resulted in almost as many dead and twelve times the number of injured. In the World war, every death-dealing engine and instrument known to modern warfare was brought into play. Every device and strategem known to military science was utilized by each side to defeat and conquer the other, and at the end of our participation in the war our casualties in dead and wounded numbered 360,300.

Now let us consider the staggering total of the casualties in the warfare we are waging upon one another by the use of one instrument of destruction only, and it one held to be an instrument of peace rather than of war. We refer to the automobile. There are far more automobiles in action, of course, than the number of soldiers ever assembled on any battlefield, but the field of its operations is so widely extended that its victims are not grouped as they were in the World war. They are numbered by ones and twos and threes. Sometimes by fours, or fives or sixes. At times, but rarely, there may be a dozen, or a score. But they are found here, there and everywhere. Failing as they do, we do not appreciate the terrible toll men are exacting from their fellow-men in the use of the automobile for business and pleasure. Let us take the total, not for a day, a week, a month or a year, but for the past five years. Then we can glean the havoc being worked.

Figures compiled and just made public by the American Roadbuilders' association show that, during the last five years, over 100,000 persons have been killed and slightly in excess of 3,000,000 people have been injured in or as the result of automobile accidents.

In highway crossing accidents alone more people are killed and injured each year than our army suffered in dead and wounded over in France. People will not observe the stop signs when approaching thoroughfares. They try to go through traffic which has the right of way. A collision occurs, and death and injury result. This is but one of many causes of accidents at highway or street crossings resulting from the failure of motorists to observe the traffic laws. Not a day passes that some traffic law is not violated hundreds of thousands, and perhaps millions, of times. Not a day passes in Marion that some traffic regulation is not broken hundreds, if not thousands of times. People not only transgress against the rights of others and endanger the lives of others, but endanger their own as well.

How much longer will this peace-time warfare which mankind is waging against mankind go on? How many more hundreds of thousands of lives must be lost and millions of injuries be suffered before the motoring public comes to its senses?

It's just possible that Senator Borah's friendship for soviet Russia is as strong as ever, but of late the Hon. William has not been so vociferous about it.

Then there's another phase of the thing: if cleanliness is next to godliness, as we are told, why shouldn't the present-day dress of women, with the ablutions it just about necessitates, lead to a great moral and spiritual revival?

While the criminal element of Canton, in the light of the history of the past, was justified in assuming that "trouble" up there would soon blow over, it seems that the criminal element, as well as the public generally, if the truth be told, was mighty badly fooled. For some time to come, it will be the course of wisdom for the criminally-inclined to steer clear of Canton, now that she has found the way to put on a clean-up.

We can not vision any flood of grief on the part of the public over the fact that the government is causing trouble for the New York theater ticket brokers. The law provides that a tax of five per cent. be levied where the surcharge on tickets—the broker's commission—is as much as fifty cents. If there is a greater surcharge the government gets half of it. It appears that some of the brokers have been turning in five per cent. where their surcharges ranged from two to ten dollars, thus swindling the government as well as their patrons.

Poems That Live.

ODE.

We are the music-makers,
And we are the dreamers of dreams.
Wandering by lone sea-breakers,
And sitting by desolate streams;
World-losers and world-forsakers,
On whom the pale moon gleams:
Yet we are the movers and shakers
Of the world forever, it seems.

With wonderful deathless ditties
We build up the world's great cities,
And out of a fabulous story
We fashion an empire's glory:
One man with a dream, at pleasure,
Shall go forth and conquer a crown;
And three with a new song's measure
Can trample a kingdom down.

We, in the ages lying
In the buried past of the earth,
Built Nineveh with our sighing,
And Babel itself in our mirth;
And o'erthrew them with prophesying
To the old of the new world's worth;
For each age is a dream that is dying,
Or one that is coming to birth.

—Arthur O'Shaughnessy.

TRAGEDY IN THREE CHAPTERS.

Steady Source of Human Ailments.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is difficult to determine what physical disturbance is most responsible for human misery. If I were asked to name it I should not hesitate to suggest constipation.

Of course, constipation is not a disease; it is merely a symptom. But no matter what causes the constipation, it is in its turn, one of the chief of the health destroying conditions.

Constipation is one of the most common of ailments. Plenty of persons are never free from it. Others are not free from it except when there are periods of diarrhea. They may have alternations of diarrhea and constipation.

One of my old medical teachers said "woman is a combination of constipation and backache." He implied that all women are constipated. As a matter of fact, too, many of them are.

Men are almost as bad. Whether they admit it or not, they are constipated. A movement every day does not prove otherwise.

Constipation can not be defined as the absence of bowel movements. Any delay in the expulsion of digestive waste may be counted as a sign of its presence.

Slowness or sluggishness of the fecal stream may result in removal of waste today which should have passed on two or three days ago. Unless there is prompt and regular action, even though there is a daily movement, constipation is present.

Lack of fluids, avoidance of rough foods, excessive indulgence in fats, lowered muscular tone, and the neglect of a regular habit of evacuation are the five chief causes of constipation.

What you take into the stomach has much to do with the disposal of digestive waste. To have regular bowel action, you must eat coarse vegetables, fruits and cereals, and breads with the outer layers of the grain included in the food product, and drink plenty of water.

An excess of cream, butter and fat meats will promote constipation. They should be taken sparingly.

The muscular walls of the intestinal canal will not respond as they should unless the general muscular tone of the body is cared for in a proper manner. This means that regular exercise, fresh air and plenty of rest are a part of the daily life.

Salts, oils and cathartics give temporary relief, but do not overcome the tendency to constipation. Right living and regularity in making the effort at movements are vastly more important.

Editorial Comment.

AMERICA AS A MEAL TICKET.

The United States has delegates sitting in three or four League of Nations conferences, commissions, executive secretariats or whatnots considering the state of the universe and why and how to change it. These delegates have no authority to sign documents and that takes virtually all the joy out of the proceedings for the representatives of the other countries. No matter how soft the American eggs are found to be, even if they run all over the plate, they can't be got in the spoon.

The various gentlemen associated with the Americans in these discussions know exactly what they want, but that does not help at all. They want free privilege to send labor and goods into the United States without immigration or tariff restrictions. It is regarded as immoral to set up these obstacles to an improvement of European conditions, a part of the selfishness which is further demonstrated in the willingness of America to take back some of the money for which it holds notes.

The United States is not unsympathetic when the apparent troubles of much of Europe are being considered, but that does not involve a sanction for the internationalizing of American means of livelihood. It has never been proposed to other countries. It is a doctrine to be applied to the United States alone, a theory which has understandable origins but nevertheless is not applicable. America was known for so many years as the domain of new fortunes that it has seemed to have the right of restriction.

The opportunities of the world have not been exhausted. They may require the same frontier hardihood which occupied and developed the land here and brought its resources to bear on the well-being of the people. They may ask for the same courage and toil, and impose the same deprivations and suffering which went into the forests, mountains, streams and plains of this country.

Europe professes to believe that the United States owes it a living and that any protection of America for the people in it is offensive to humanity. It is a doctrine no other nation would accept for itself, but which virtually all would impose on Americans. —Chicago Tribune.

LIBERTY AND LICENSE.

State legislation designed to protect existing government institutions is not in conflict with the federal constitution. That in a few words is what the supreme court decided in the Whitney case and the Burns case, both coming to it on appeal from California.

Neither defendant was charged with any act of violence. Their syndicalism, it appears, was of the philosophic kind. Miss Whitney had aided in the organization of a branch of the Communist Labor party, an organization affiliated with the Communist Internationale of Moscow. She contended throughout that it was not her thought that the party would become an instrument of violence or terrorism.

The Burns case has received less attention. This defendant was identified with the International Workers of the World, one of the foremost syndicalist societies in this country. This organization, Justice Butler pointed out, promoted various kinds of sabotage, and its authorized delegate, Burns, was accordingly held guilty of violation of the California statute which makes syndicalism unlawful.

Present interest in these cases is largely academic. The conditions which gave rise to the California statute have largely disappeared. Little fear of the Red agitation is now entertained in the United States.

The Moscow organization nevertheless remains active. England is greatly distressed by its operations in China. There is no telling when its energies might again be turned in this direction, although the conditions for acceptance of its philosophy were never more unfavorable here than they are today.

The question of syndicalism or of the Red terror quite aside, the court's holding that "freedom of speech does not constitute unbridled license for every possible use of language" is significant. That sentence will be quoted widely in the future.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ROMANTIC BAGDAD GONE.

I had not seen Bagdad since 1912. What a change! I had left an Arab city and found an Anglo-Indian city, or practically one. And it is no longer Bagdad, but "Baighdaid," as the new occupants pronounce it.

The ancient city of the caliphs has lost its unique character to assume an international appearance. The great landowners and merchants no longer invite you to go down the Tigris a little before sunrise to sit in their beautiful palm gardens before a tiny cup of coffee or a snow sherbert. You no longer pass on the river of an evening those splendid belems laden with musicians and ladies, while the reflections in the water of the multicolored abas blend with those of the setting sun.

The stream today is treaded morning and evening by motor boats whose klaxons rip the air. Vanished forever the fair silhouette of silent Bagdad, asleep in the rose and green veils of a smokeless twilight. The factory, the electric light and the tumult of the dance hall have destroyed that unforgetable fairyland. There remain a fair sky, a fair river, a few gardens; but Bagdad is no longer the city of the "Thousand and One Nights." —Maurice Pernot in Paris Revue des Deux Mondes.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Nobody can compute the price which a nation pays for war. It is said that the wars of Napoleon took an inch off the height of the men of France. Today ninety-five per cent. of the men who apply for places on the police force of England are rejected by doctors. The deterioration of physique and the effects of privation following the war are given as the cause. There is no quick and easy penalty for war.

Nobody who knows very much about the actual life of the rank and file of the people will be quick to condemn the installment buying plan. Today eighty per cent. of electrical household appliances are bought on the easy-purchase plan. Electrical household appliances have been a tremendous factor in relieving women from drudgery. Household machinery has introduced women into a happier world.

The little by-products of history that one runs into now and then prove in many interesting ways the advance of knowledge and the spread of education. King John was one of the most famous kings of England. From him the English won the great charter of their rights in 1215. And yet King John couldn't even write his name. What would you think of a king of England today or a president of the United States who could not write?

Evil, in all its manifestations, seems prevalent. Life has many disillusioning experiences. The fact remains that evil is still the exception in human behavior. The great bulk of life's experiences still demonstrate the good.

Japan never lags far behind the nations of the West in the adoption of modern practices. Japan now admits women to the bar. Women in parts of the Far East are still slaves. A nation's progress bears a close and direct relation to the condition of its women.

In Paris, the Gay.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Paris, May 19—Today was another fete day. Paris needs only the slightest excuse to close shop and go on a holiday. Sometimes there are five and six holidays a month. I joined the merrymakers as an innocent bystander in the Bois.

The Bois with its lovely woods, cool bark paths, network of foot-bridges over purling streams, sloping greensward and stretches of tangled wildwood is to me the most satisfying park in the world. The race courses of Longchamps and Auteil skirt its outer border.

There is the polo field, the professional tennis courts, cricket fields and such but mostly it is a place to promenade and drive. It symbolizes the French consciousness — a nation at play. There is a naivete to their merrymaking that is appealing.

Papa is in his shirtsleeves romping with the children, while Mama sits in the shade, knitting. Young lovers with arms around each other's waists stroll. Grandpa and Grandma sit on benches with a sort of faded wonder in their eyes.

There are spanking cobbed horses drawing open carriages, liveried limousines, kitten-powered autos for two, and profusion of bicycles with wives, sweethearts and children perched on the handle-bars. Artificial lakes are filled with rowed boats. Laughter and shouting are pronounced.

Everybody takes a lunch to picnic under the leafy trees. As the sun goes down the homeward journey begins, and there is an impression of pleasant fatigue. One never sees rowdiness or intoxication. Although every family brings its bottle of wine.

The Bois is for the people. There are no signs forbidding trespassing, or other restrictions. No one leaves the litter left behind in American public parks. The feeling of ownership is strong. Any one who would attempt to despoil a tree would come very nearly being mobbed.

* * *

One sees many types in the Bois. The dandy in high-heeled shoes with lavender uppers, braided wasp-waisted coat and gray trousers, black gloves and umbrella. Pallid youths with wide student hats, long burnsides, flowing ties and drawing boards. Those professional looking widows with black bonnets piped in white, and startlingly rouged. Men with spade-shaped beards, leading be-ribboned white poodles. Hairless old boys with exhilarating noses. A moroccan in turban with an American chorus girl.

* * *

Homegoers from the Bois exemplify French thrift. Nearly all carry a load of dried and rotting tree twigs picked up here and there to help keep the home fires burning.

* * *

A gendarme, as I in usual fashion got mixed up in traffic, shouted a volley of volatile and tender epithets. He was a rank amateur. I've been insulted by the most accomplished along Fifth avenue.

* * *

As I sat waiting in one of those Rue de Rivoli shops catering to the lacey necessities of life—I was with my wife, if there are any wise crackers in the audience—a blonde young Frenchman entered. The proprietor was so glad to see him he kissed him smack on the mouth, adjusted his cravat, picked imaginary fluff from his lapels, and otherwise showered attention. They conversed in French. I somehow began to speculate on how America would impress the blonde. My ruminations were suddenly broken as another man passed. The blonde hailed him in unaccented English. "Glad to see you, young squirrel!" he exclaimed. "Just arrived on the continent yesterday. I've been working in an auto plant in Detroit."

* * *

Paris shop keepers and hotels are not doing so well as this is written in early May. The reasons are obvious, and I'll go into it a little more in detail later. In the meantime I'm off for a snail dinner—a feast that is worth a trip to Paris; that is, if you care for snails. And I want to see the black-aproned wine man who hasn't been sober in five years. — Copyright 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was born at Hyde Park, New York, January 30, 1882. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1907, practising at New York until 1910, when he was elected to the New York senate. In 1913 Roosevelt was made assistant secretary of the Navy, an office which he held until 1920. In that year he was the Democratic nominee for vice president of the United States. Roosevelt is a trustee of Vassar college, the Woodrow Wilson foundation, and the Seamen's institute. He is also president of the Boy Scout foundation, of New York City. In 1918 he was in charge of the inspection of the United States naval forces in European waters, and of the demobilization in Europe in January and February, 1919.

Lately, Mr. Roosevelt paid a visit to the South, and he says as a result of his observations there:

"I have been in the South for many weeks and have been in touch with a great many people from the flooded areas. They expressed to me without exception, the view that the government should take without delay action to provide a more permanent form of relief for sufferers from the floods than can be afforded them through relief funds created from private contributions.

"In the vicinity of 200,000 persons, men, women and children, have been driven away from their homes and their lands by the invasion of the waters from swollen rivers, in the flooded area. They need not only food and clothing to tide them over troubles in the immediate future. They are going to lack the facilities for starting new corps after the waters recede and for repairing damage done to their property by the flood.

"That is, relief of such magnitude that it will be beyond the Red Cross to furnish it to the sufferers. Personally, I am in favor of asking the president to call an extraordinary session of congress, so that the government itself may take the necessary steps to give relief of the character indicated."

Dinner Stories.

Sergeant to R. O. T. C. rookie: "Private, I'll impress upon you that you must be more respectful toward me. Why, I had 250 men under me during the war."

Rookie: "You ain't got nothin' on me. I had 1,200 people under me last summer."

Sergeant, doubtfully: "What were you doing?"

Rookie: "I moved the grass in a cemetery."

* * *

The driver of the auto skidded around the corner, wabbled down the street, and then turned to the left just in time to avoid hitting another car.

"You fooled about ten people that time," one of the passengers quavered.

"What do you mean, ten people?" demanded the driver.

"Five in this car, and five in the other."

* * *

A young country girl was evidently taking her first ride on the train. The conductor came through the car yelling, "Tickets, please," and after some embarrassment she handed him her ticket.

Soon after a train boy came into her car crying, "Chewing gum." The country maid turned to her companion and said: "Goodness, do I have to give up that, too?"

Special Session and Luncheon Scheduled by I. O. O. F., June 7

Mizpah Encampment, No. 50, I. O. O. F., will confer the patriachal degree at its next regular meeting to be held June 7. A social session and lunch will follow the degree work.

Arrangements for the event were made at the semi-monthly session of the organization held Tuesday night. Talks by several members on the history of Mizpah Encampment also featured the meeting. This was in observance of the 76th anniversary of the encampment, which was organized on May 14, 1851.

Child-birth

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, an expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., B A 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. Beneath my eyelashes I cast a furtive little glance at Mary and saw subtle signals of battle in her heightened color and the unconscious squaring of her shoulders. I am in no sense a matchmaker especially as Dicky's young niece is altogether too young to settle her future now, but my sympathies had been excited by Noel Veritzen's, selfless devotion to Mary, quixotic when he knew her only as the masked dancer and a supposed protegee of the odious Jack Leslie, and no less sincere and dogged now that she had been proved guiltless of anything save girlish indiscretion in that unsavory episode. That Mary with the self-sufficiency of the young "modern" was taking the young violinist's devotion very much for granted, while giving him only the attention she would bestow upon any personable young man, I had observed with some indignation for Noel, and secretly I was glad of Miss Lincoln's very apparent penchant for the young man, I guessed that Mary's conduct toward her faithful admirer would be decidely less cavalier than it had been.

It was easy to see that as yet the young viloinist had no idea of the little comedy which was being played around his head. I never have known a more modest youth, nor a more self-deprecatory one. That the boy was suffering from something very like an inferiority complex on account of his unfortunate estrangement from his father, we all knew, and I was sure that it would take a great deal of direct attack on Miss Lincoln's part to make him conscious of her marked interest in him. Altogether, I told myself, it promised to be an interesting and amusing Summer if the young chatelaine of The Larches kept up her present average.

Mrs. Ticer loomed large and forbidding upon the veranda as we came up the steps.

"Your tea and buffins are cold," she announced reproachfully as we came up the steps. It was a salutation familiar to me, and one which I never dispute, knowing that Mrs. Ticer is not a servant but a "neighbor going to help out," a distinction very necessary to observe and heed when dealing with the country folk of the east end of the island. But Miss Lincoln listened.

"Remove the servants and make us some more at once," she said icily and my neighbor's head went up in a gesture as haughty as that of the young woman who employed her.

That an explosion was imminent, I saw, and arrested it by the only means in my power. Quickly changing my position so that my face was shielded from Miss Lincoln but perfectly visioned by my old neighbor, I grimaced compellingly at her, and exclaimed:

"Oh! Mrs. Ticer have you baked any of those delicious little cinnamon snaps for Miss Lincoln to-

CHILD TAKES BIBLE TO GOTHAM

LARRY GRENFALL, American traveler and student of Eastern magic, receives a telephone call from BEN MANSOUR, cosmopolite and old friend, saying he must see him at once.

GILES, Mansour's servant, drives Larry to his friend's house. While the two are talking a turbanned head appears at the window, Mansour opens it and a Moor steps in. He gives Mansour a ring as a token, set with a magnificent ruby. Mansour throws it on a table. Through the Moor it is revealed that Mansour is a Moor and ruler of his tribe. For some reason he must die but he insists that his son rule after him. Mansour says that he has taken poison and the Moor goes, tossing into the room a tiny ivory tiger — the Striped Death. Mansour asks Grenfall if he will go to Morocco, find the Temple, endure the Ordeal and crush the Group - all of which is Greek to Grenfall. He is to find a certain Omar ben Meljad. Then Mansour dies. Giles has instructions to open a certain trunk and take care of the letters he will find therein.

Giles and Grenfall open the trunk, finding Mansour's will and a letter to Grenfall asking him to carry out the instructions he gave him before he died. Grenfall takes the ruby ring and tells Giles he is going to Morocco.

Larry arrives in Morocco and is solicited for alms by a mendicant.

He shows the token—the ruby ring and the mendicant guides him to an alley where he changes his costume for that of the mendicant and he is pulled into a house by a Moor to whom he again shows his token.

Larry finds this new Moor is Omar ben Meljad. He furnishes Larry with the disguise of a magician.

CHAPTER EIGHT

AS silently as he had entered the Doukkala mendicant, after taking his burnouse, and certain of Larry's garments, stepped from the room and out in the blue-black night, the Oriental night that is ever filled with intrigue to the mind of the Occidental.

Alone once more with Omar, Larry looked at the man curiously. It was obvious the fellow possessed power among those of his kind, and the American suspected strongly that he was more than he pretended to be.

"Omar," he said, "I want some information. Tell me, did you know Ben Mansour?"

The other nodded silently.

"You know he is dead?"

"Killed by a subtle poison," Omar agreed. "He was to his friends, a wonderful man, but to himself—I have my doubts."

"Ben got me to promise to come here, Omar, find you and learn the way to the Temple. I promised him I would endeavor to recover a casket and place it in your hands. He hinted vaguely of fearsome things, and there was a messenger—"

Omar interrupted him.

"I know, moulay, a messenger from the Temple, who bade Mansour to a throne or death; the messenger and two companions who accompanied him to your country have returned. They are now in the hills, reporting, no doubt, to the powerful group of marabouts who sent them."

"Confound it, Omar, how do you know so much? Sometimes one would almost swear you have been over there with them."

Omar chuckled grimly.

"I have eyes that see and ears that hear. They keep me informed of all that it is needful for me to know. That is why Ben Mansour told you to come to me."

"Well, I'm here. Now tell me what the grand idea is," Larry said.

For a long time Omar looked at him silently. Finally, he said:

Ben Mansour was my dearest friend; I would lay down my life to return his and sorrow, you, also, must have been held dearly in his heart, else he would not have chosen you as the one to perform a great mission. I shall tell you a story, but before I speak I require your pledge that in case you think the task too great, your courage too frail, or the obstacles too vast for you to overthrow, you will never reveal what you are about to hear."

"I promise, by the spirit of my ancestors and by the tomb of your own prophet, Omar," Larry said, solemnly.

"I am satisfied," said Omar, lighting a fresh cigaret. "Now, listen." He drew a long draft, sipped his coffee, then thrust the cup aside, looking at Larry with appraising eyes.

"For many centuries the Berber tribes, in common with all Moslem, have observed the mouloud, which as you know is the anniversary of the birth of the prophet; in your country you have Christmas, which is the same occasion to you. Often, however, in past years when these observances were finished, the hill tribes forgot their late religious fervor and flared up in warfare against one another so violently that in many instances weak tribes were virtually eradicated, while even the strongest had their ranks decimated seriously. This condition obtained until forty years ago, when Sherif Youcoub el-Marmazi conceived the idea of welding into a powerful league certain of the greatest of the tribes. This resulted eventually in the Seven Tribes of the Berbers, whose histories you portrayed so well in one of your books. This did away with warfare, because the Seven Tribes absolutely dominated Morocco south of the Atlas and even the southern stretches beyond the mountains."

Larry listened with interest, hearing in this wise confirmation of things he already had learned in his several authoritative books on Morocco and the Moors. Omar continued.

"Sherif Youcoub was able to exercise his great power because he possessed the Sacred Eye which was, if you know Moorish history as well as I believe you do, a symbol of power that was handed down by ruler to ruler through bloody descents. Legend has long since put away fact in connection with the Sacred Eye, until now it is more symbol of power than ever before. To retain the leadership of the tribes, the sherif on each mouloud, was compelled by tribal law to go through the Ordeal, wearing the Eye.

"Now, when Sherif Youcoub died, his son, Omar ben Mansour, being a prince of the blood, became sherif, and about this time a powerful group of marabouts began to form throughout the Atlas with the aim of overthrowing the power of the sherif and taking unto itself the rule over all Moslem outside of the domain under immediate control of the Sultan, the French and the Spaniards. These marabouts became so powerful it was that through intrigue they stole the Sacred Eye and carried it to their inviolate Temple where no man save marabouts and the greatest of the sherifs may go, because no one else may take the road save only after the marabouts have summoned him. And the marabouts stole Ben Mansour's son, and it is said they taught him of their cult at a walled city in the hills that at a later date lost him. Some say the son is now hiding in the city of Fez el Abda."

Omar paused briefly, to light another cigaret.

"Following the theft of the Sacred Eye the people on the eve of the next mouloud and inspired no doubt by the marabout group of plotters, let it be known in no uncertain tones that unless the Eye were worn during the Ordeal, the sherif might take his choice between death by the sword or strangulation. Ben Mansour fled in the night his son having been stolen and his wife having died some time before. He disguised himself cleverly and reached Fez, where he was fairly safe. It was there you first met him and it was there, my friend, that he took a strong liking to you. For years he traveled, always hiding, then one day a messenger found him and told him that if he would return and lead his people he would be spared his life and restored to the sherifcy."

Forgetting both coffee and cigaret, Larry leaned forward, intensely interested.

"Go on," he said.

"Mansour refused, asking that the honor be given his son, then he resumed his flight. Meantime, back in the Atlas, the powerful Marabout Group had announced to the people that it would produce a sherif for them. To make good their boast, they decided they would heed Mansour's request and place his son on the tribal throne, which is a figurative throne at best. The Group, however, planned to back the boy just so long as he played the game of the conspirators, but in building up their power and setting their plans these holy men made a fatal error. They told the people they had caused the downfall of Ben Mansour because it had come to their ears that he was dickering to hand the Sacred Eye to the Spaniards and so make easy the conquest of the southern Atlas. They told the people that it had been said in the past that so long as the Sacred Eye remained in their possession, the Berbers would never be subjugated and thereby implied that if the Spaniards were given the symbol they would conquer the Berbers and bring them under their rule as they have brought the Submissive Tribes of the plains. That legend has been behind the 20 years' warfare of the Riff tribes against Spain, for the Riffs are allied with the Berbers.

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale

Aged 6 months

WITH the spirit of the pioneer, the Pilgrim fathers and mothers pressed into the virgin forests of New England, hewed a clearing, raised crude huts, and built on these foundations the strength and soul of a mighty nation.

With this same spirit, the man who thought of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale selected a fair spot in this same New England, built there a plant solely for this use, and gave to America its finest ginger ale.

He planned a vast structure, scientifically equipped, near a virgin spring which furnished absolutely pure water.

From the start he insisted on the choicest quality of flavoring ingredients, whose quality is higher than the highest government standards, and supervised their skilled blending according to a treasured formula. Then long aging under ideal conditions, to develop that fullness of flavor and mellowness of tone which make Clicquot Club a unique ginger ale.

For almost half a century craftsmen who sensed their calling as an art have carried on with the spirit of this pioneer who paved the way to the making of a master drink. They have kept Clicquot Club so pure that no preservatives of any kind are needed; so delicious that whether you prefer the rich Golden or the delicate Pale Dry, you find in every bottle bearing its famous label a zestful, satisfying beverage.

Modern Education's Defects Pointed Out by Fletcher

Marion Congressman Is Interviewed by Washington Correspondent

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 19—When I was a kid I was taught that the more schooling you had the better.

Grammar school wasn't enough; high school barely.

If you wanted to be any better than an ignorant foreigner you had to go to college. You might forget all about it later but it disciplined your mind anyway.

We didn't all go but the kid who didn't was regarded as having overlooked his life's best bet or having been robber of something.

It was felt also that some college had been flim-flammed.

• • •

NOW, about every so often, the president of one or another of our big universities breaks out substantially as follows:

"Too blame high a percentage of the kids who attend this institution of learning are congenital boneheads. College can't do anything for 'em. They oughta be out earning a living. They waste their time here. What's more, they waste our time.

"There oughta be some way of keeping kids outa college who got no business there."

• • •

AT first I thought this was a new kind of college professorial snobbishness. Then it got so persistent it puzzled me. Finally I decided to investigate.

For educational lore, call on Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion, Ohio.

He's one the house education committee. In my opinion he's the crackerjack member—anyway the crackerjack Ohio member. Besides, he worked in a steel mill after he got out of college, so I felt sure he wasn't snobbish.

• • •

"WHY, you see" explained the congressman, "colleges originally were intended to fit candidates for just three callings—the church, law and medicine.

"Their training was almost indispensable in any of these callings; to the aspirant for a steel mill job it was mighty little use.

"College courses have been immensely broadened since then, but they haven't kept pace with the increase in the number of our occupations.

"The university president who says certain students aren't the right raw material for his institution means rather that his institution hasn't anything to offer that those students need."

• • •

"EVEN," continued the representative, "if a university has a line of study perfectly suited to a given student's requirements and he's taking something else, they're wasting one another's time.

"Before a student's admitted to any institution of higher learning, it should be determined what training will do him the most good.

"If he himself doesn't know, it's the school's business to investigate until it finds out. Otherwise, yes, unless by pure accident, his education will be a waste of time."

Massillon Team to Play Marion Athletics Sunday

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

THE one-bounce dribble in basketball will not become effective during the 1927-28 season.

That announcement has been made following the decision of a joint rules commitee representing colleges, the A. A. U., and the Y. M. C. A., and concurrence by the full membership of the joint basketball rules committee.

The committee, however, it is said, still believes the one-bounce dribble is a step in the right direction but agrees to its postponement to allow players and coaches to acquaint themselves with the new problem.

And we predict that it will be a puzzling problem as well as new. While the new rule, when adopted, will not seriously handicap quintets while the play is in the center of the floor, the big question arises about the man who makes a dribbling break for the basket.

The five-man defense long ago ruined ambitions of the fancy dribbler who starts at one end of the court and smashes headlong toward his goal, without asking assistance from his teammates. The winning game in the last few years has been played by the passing outfit, with very, very few exceptions, if any.

But the short dribble, used by the man who makes a sudden break for the bucket when receiving the ball from a teammate in the midst of the enemy's defense, has won many games.

As a rule the player making the break will take at least two dribbles, unless he received the ball directly under the hoop. Under the new law, he will have only one dribble and a couple of steps before he must aim for the bucket.

Practically all offense next season will be conducted exclusively on the passing plan in preparation for the new ruling and, while most teams already have developed a fast passing outfit rather than a dribbling crew, the

WILL HE REPEAT?—

When Frank Lockhart, 24-year-old speed demon, went to Indianapolis last year he was an exercise boy for the cars entered by Harry Miller, famous racing car builder. Then at the last minute, Peter Kreis, one of the regular drivers, became ill and was shunted to the hospital. Lockhart was chosen to fill the gap.

He qualified the car at a speed of 115.18 miles an hour, a record for one lap that still stands, won the race, and a few weeks ago traveled 171 miles an hour on a straightaway, a new record for 91½ cubic inch piston displacement motors. He will drive the same car in the 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30.

EDDIE MEADE, ST. PAUL PLAYER, IS SUICIDE

St. Paul, Minn., May 19—Eddie Meade, member of the pitching staff of the St. Paul American Association club, who was recently suspended for not being in condition, was found dead in his room here late yesterday, a suicide, according to authorities.

Meade was found by a maid lying across the bed fully dressed with a revolver in his hand and a bullet wound through his heart.

Meade was 21 years old. His home is in Niagara Falls, N. Y. He joined the St. Paul club last summer, winning five games and losing the same number.

Story of Pennant Races is Tale of Three Cities

NEW YORK, May 19—The story of the pennant races is a tale of three cities today. By an odd coincidence, both New York clubs are leading the parade, both Chicago teams are in second and the two Philadelphia outfits are in third place.

Chicago's advance to second place and the flop of the Cardinals into the second division featured a shake-up in the National League standing. The Cards, after losing one series to the Giants and another to the Phillies, dropped the opener of the Boston series, 8 to 1. Larry Benton, the winning twirler put the skids under Wee Willie Sherdel by hitting a double with the bases full.

The Pirates got off to an 11 run lead and murdered the Giants, 13 to 6. Joe Harris got four of Pittsburgh's 18 hits and the Giants made five errors.

Brooklyn also made five errors and lost to the Cubs 7 to 4. Charley Root pitched well while outfielder Hack Wilson covered more ground that a mortgage.

Bing Miller got four hits in one game for the third time within a week and took the lead in the American League batting race as the Browns outslugged the Red Sox, 8 to 6. The Red Sox made three homers, as many as they previously had made all season.

Whitehill struck out 10 men and the umpire threw out two others as Detroit beat Washington, 5 to 3. Bassler, Detroit catcher, and Onslow, Washington coach were chased for disputing decisions.

The Yankees, Indians, Athletics, White Sox, Phillies and Reds did not play.

FAST SEMI-PRO OUTFIT COMING TO LOCAL PARK

Shafer-Hammond Lumber Co. Nine Is Best in Massillon

MASSILLON will be the next opponent to face the Marion Athletics at Lincoln Park. The team from that city will play here Sunday.

Massillon is noted for its famous athletics teams and the baseball outfit is no exception. It is by far the best nine Marion has yet played here this season.

The team coming to Marion is the fastest semi-pro crew in Massillon this year. It is playing under the name of the Shafer-Hammond Lumber Co. and is under the management of L. Jones, who had charge of the Massillon Maroons last season.

Much talent has been assembled by the club and from it will be selected the players to make up the roster.

Lineup Given

Concrete Saves Gasoline

You will find in the simple chart, shown above, a lesson in economy directly connected with every motorist's pocketbook.

It shows that a gallon of gasoline carries you more than twice as far on a concrete road as on a dirt road, and one-third farther than on gravel.

The all-around economy of concrete roads goes a long way toward paying for them. In addition to the fuel saving, they are rigid, safe to drive on, and have the lowest upkeep cost.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE CONTESTS TONIGHT

Four Good Games Scheduled If Weather Permits Playing

The Marion Packing Co. will play the Steam Shovel shops at the Steam Shovel, the Erie Shops will play the C., D. & M. at Central Junior, the Osgood Co. will clash with Huber at Fairfield, and the Gardner Tap and Die Co. will meet Fairfield at Lincoln Park in the second series of games to be held tonight in the Industrial League, if weather permits.

The Gardner Co., a newcomer in the league, looms as a strong contender for the title. It trounced the Osgood Co. in the opening game of the season last week and should have little trouble with Fairfield tonight.

The Erie Shops and C., D. & M. both undefeated, should stage a great battle. Osgood is doped to defeat Huber, and the Steam Shovel shops and Erie are expected to put on an interesting affair.

Sharkey and Maloney at Stadium May Draw Half Million Gate Tonight

By DAVID J. WALSH

...YORK, May 19—It was all of ... years ago that a pic... figure of a man came out ... to glare upon the world ... with his fist, buy drinks ... house, about the now famous ... can lick any man in the world." ... afterward prove that he ... would—with and without ... provocation.

John L. Sullivan has been no more this many a year but meantime, another generation of Boston fighters has been born and two of them will meet at the Yankee Stadium tonight in a fifteen round bout that may decide everything or nothing. The pair in question are Jack Sharkey, a Boston Lithuanian with a celtic nom-de-glove, and Jimmy Maloney, a Boston Irishman, which fact is sufficient identification.

The fight has been built up to the rather staggering proportions of a half million dollar extravaganza in consequence of the pair annexing Rickard's heavyweight elimination tourney and the immediate prospect of the winner going to bat with Dempsey, Tunney and possibly the title itself.

A Vague Resemblance

Capital also has been made of the fact that Boston alike is responsible for the immortal John L. and the principals of tonight's show but, although Maloney, on his way to the match, has beaten Ike Kuh, Diener, Persson and Delaney, while Sharkey was winning from Wills and McTigue the resemblance between the past and present of Boston's heavyweight hopes would seem to be a bit vague.

However, the possibility remains that tonight's winner might be the next heavyweight champion and that always is sufficient to give the turnstiles a great rally. The understanding too, that the winner is to be matched with the survivor of the Dempsey-Paolini match later in the season will serve to keep practically no one away.

So much for the expectation of what will be proved tonight. It is just as likely that nothing in particular will come of the meeting. Sharkey and Maloney already have not thrive without either being slapped down with any degree of permanency. True, they were ten round fights and tonight's is fifteen but a light punches seldom knocks Ma... man regardless of a fight's duration and neither of these ever are at all critical about their punching.

Maloney would seem to have the more damaging punch but Sharkey is the better boxer, the smarter fighter and possibly the gamer man and the smart money will ride with him. He lost on points to Maloney on the occasion of their first meeting several years ago when both were a couple of stiffs. The second time out, Maloney had Sharkey on the floor something like seven times but the young man kept getting up and finally it is alleged that James became a trifle discouraged. Anyhow he ultimately lost on a foul.

The Likely Outcome

The third fight went to Sharkey on points, the Lithuanian crowding Maloney at all times which generally is understood to be the proper way to fight him. He has a good straight left but his best punches are hooks to the jaw and naturally a man who stays right with him cramps his style considerably.

That, anyhow is supposed to be the case but the fight world may unreel another film entirely, as fights have a habit of doing. Sharkey couldn't punch hard enough to stop Mike McTigue until the latter's blood painted the premises beyond all reason. He, therefore, doesn't figure to hurt Maloney much. What, therefore will Maloney do to him?

James is a fair puncher, and if any knockdowns are scored, he probably will get them. But it isn't likely that he will halt Sharkey, either; so it probably will resolve itself into the question of what a referee and two judges think about it.

Last Baseball Games To Be Played as Schools Close Doors for Summer Vacation; Prospect and Green Camp Will Be Represented at Stadium, May 28

THE last chapter in sports in all Marion County schools with the exception of Green Camp and Prospect High, for the present school year will be written Friday night, when the schools close for summer vacation. Several schools have booked their final baseball games for Friday and will turn in their suits following the contests.

Prospect High and Green Camp will not close the sport season until May 28, when representatives of those schools will participate in the Ohio State track meet at Ohio Stadium, Columbus. "Tiny" Johnson, weight man from Prospect, and Earl Furniss, javelin thrower for Green Camp, both winners in the district meet at Delaware last week, will try their luck against competition from all parts of the state.

Only Two In Track

Prospect and Green Camp were the only two schools to try out for track while a number of other country schools organized baseball teams for the spring season.

Green Camp and Pleasant Township produced the county champions in basketball the greatest of all county school sports during the 1926-27 season. Green Camp boys defeated Caledonia in the championship game while Pleasant girls trounced Morral.

It is known that at least two of the outstanding coaches of the year will not again be found in county schools here next season. J. M. Duley, superintendent at Pleasant Township and L. B. Brown, Prospect superintendent, have not again applied for those positions. Rumors of other changes also are being heard.

Stars Graduate

Graduation will take a number of stars from various county school basketball outfits this year, but one team, Caledonia, will be almost intact next season with the two Whitacres, Baird and others still there.

Prospect High will be the last county school to close. Commencement exercises in that village are scheduled for May 26.

Kitz and Biggs are former Massillon Agathons; Price is of the Dempson Pan Handles, and Scott of the fast Ohio League.

Biggs and Morgan are both considered excellent moundsmen but it is probable that the former will start Sunday's game. The other men are well-known in northeastern Ohio.

Rained Out

The local crew was rained out of its game with the Akron Swanhearts last Sunday but have held a couple of practices since that time and are prepared for the worst of them. Another practice session may be held Saturday afternoon.

RAIN MAY STOP FIGHT TONIGHT

New York, May 19.—Postponement of the Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney heavyweight bout at Yankee Stadium here tonight was threatened when a light rain fell here this morning. The weather man's early prediction was for showers tonight.

If a postponement is necessary, the bout will be held tomorrow night.

FOLLOWING closely upon the announcement of the resignation of L. B. Brown as superintendent of Prospect schools, comes word that J. M. Duley, head of the Pleasant Town hip school, has not again applied for that position.

Mr. Duley is another Marion County school leader who has not only made a splendid record for himself in research but has also established a mark in the coaching of athletics.

Last season, Mr. Duley was coach of the girls' basketball squad that won its county championship. The new Pleasant Township school building with an excellent gymnasium also was opened last year.

Locke Not to Leave School For Training

LINCOLN, Neb., May 19.—When University of Nebraska officials made preparations for exhibition races in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes between Robert Locke and Jackson Scholz, at the Missouri Valley track and field meet here May 21, they took care of all arrangements with the exception of getting Locke's agreement to race. And now Locke, busy with preparations for law examinations says he won't be able to run.

Despite the fact that Locke holds the world's record in the 220 and unofficially has clicked off the 100 in 9.5 seconds, cutting is second in his interest. First comes the study of law and it is his fondest hope that he will graduate this spring from Nebraska with "cum laude" honors.

Law examinations are but a few weeks off, and Locke is free to admit that he doesn't wish to be bothered with training while he is studying. At all times when studies were pressing it has been hard work for the coaches to persuade Locke to give sufficient time to training.

...coming during the 1927 season. It is predicted by a number of grid enthusiasts that football scouting will be eliminated entirely within the next few years.

The practice of getting a line on an opponent before tackling it on the field was established long ago and practically every college and even high school now has its special scouts, chosen from among those students who "know football." The style of play, formations and attack as well as defensive work of each school is known to its opponent before the clash on the field, unless a rapid-fire change is made by one of the teams.

SATURDAY AFTERNOONS HOLIDAY FOR OFFICIALS

Universal Closing Plan in Effect at Courthouse Starting May 28

Beginning Saturday, May 28, all county officers at the courthouse will be closed Saturday afternoons, an agreement to that effect having been reached by the various county officials today.

It is intended to make the closing agreement permanent. Since about a year ago all but four of the offices have not been open for business on Saturday afternoons and after thorough discussion of the matter it was decided to place the arrangement in effect throughout the entire building.

The state law designates Saturday afternoon as a legal half-holiday for public offices but Marion County officials never took advantage of the privilege until the closing plan went into effect in some of the offices about a year ago.

State examiners on duty here reported in effect in practically all other one of the few counties in the state not observing the half-holiday rule. It has been in effect in particular all other counties in this section of the state for several years, examiners said.

PLAN NOW TO BEAR SUMMER'S HEAT SAFELY

Everybody Should Take Something To Purify and Thin Blood

In the spring time everybody should take a tonic to thin and purify their blood. Those who do so will find that they are better able to stand hot weather during the summer months. For this purpose there is nothing better than Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic.

REDWOOD

Mrs. Joseph Witzenhafer, 4244 W. 21st St., Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I saw Redwood's Tepee Tonic advertised for a long time and as my health was poor I decided to try it.

"Before I took it I was nervous and couldn't sleep soundly. I would roll and toss in bed half the night and get up in the morning feeling all tired out.

"I didn't have much of an appetite and what little I ate soured on my stomach. After taking only one bottle of Redwood's Tepee Tonic I felt better than I had for a long time. My nerves were stronger and I could sleep sounder.

"Now when I get up in the morning I am rested. My housework seems easier. I have a good appetite and my food agrees with me."

Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic is recommended and sold in Marion by Bradley's, Henney & Cooper's, Wm. M. Stump, Bartlett's and all drug stores; Richwood, H. D. Kyle and Lower's, and by well stocked druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

...grandfather is certainly strong. ...could pick up the end of a ... and dump it over on the ... would certainly have a lot ...

... Jubilee are thinking mostly ... when we wake up these ... A fella can think a whole lot ... before he gets it all ... Strawberries will be ripe ... then there will be dewberries ...

Grandfather said he had better take it

...berries, and currants and ...berries and green apples and ...can get enough to eat and never ... go home.

...mother has got a new kind of ... food that is made out of ... and is in little long pieces and ...ed brown and looks like to... I saw it in the pantry when I was swiping a slice of cheese, and when I came out I saw my grandfather's tobacco pouch on the window sill near where he reads, and I emptied it in a paper and wrapped the tobacco up and put it in my pocket and filled the pouch with the breakfast food and went out to milk the cows, and the bunch were out there and I told them about it, and then I gave Jubilee his squirts and turned the cows out, and went in and fed my face, and then we stood around till my grandfather came out and sat on the step and filled his pipe and lit it, and then we waited and nothing happened.

Nibs said that his pipe was so rotten that it would taste like tobacco if he filled it with skunk cabbage, and we were going out of the yard when my grandfather called me and said if I had got done with his tobacco he had better take it, an dthen he laughed. He had peeked out of his door and seen me do it, and he had filled the pouch out of the jar in his bedroom. He is pretty smooth. But he had to be to win the war like he did.

Mush's truck wasn't hurt at all he said, but he said he has got a black and blue spot on his stummick the size of a steering wheel. He is lucky to have a big enough stummick. If I was to get a black and blue spot that size it would stick out over the edges so far that I couldn't get my pants on, and then what would I do?

We skun out from the girls after school and went for a swim. The Lost Bag of Tripe was the last one in, so he knows what he is. All the rest of us know what he was before that. Girls are certainly in the way a lot.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

...NG DAY IN THE WHITE FOOT FAMILY

...was out of sorts. He came ...growling under his breath.

"...s the matter, Cutie Fox?" ...the boy, scrambling about to ...m. "Anything gone wrong? ...you find the Field Mice?"

Fox didn't like it a bit—this ...to own up—and to Two-Legs at ...hat he had spent all this time ...ng for something he couldn't ...f the boy had not felt Fox's ...ees upon him he would have ...out loud at the fellow's efforts ...out of telling the truth.

"...ell—not exactly—I mean, Oh! ...as well tell you first as last— ...'dn't and I don't know why! I ... I knew this old meadow from ...to cockle bush, and, I am sure, ... stopped at every clump, but I ...see a sign of the Field Mice ... As I poked my nose into one ...n week stalk I saw a flash of ...hat disappeared right away. I ... it was the white foot of a ...ouse, but I knew it was no use ...to follow that creature. It ...have been down its hollow be... could have picked up its trail. ...ch if I should be lucky enough ...across Mother Deer Mouse when she is moving and all her babies are clinging to her body it might not be so ...ing.

The boy paid no attention to this. He was interested in something Cutie had just said.

"The babies clinging to their mother's body, did you say?" asked he. "What do you mean, Fox?"

"Exactly what I say," replied the bushy-tailed one. "I said her babies cling to her body, and that is just what the ydo. When a little bird tells them that Weasel is on their trail or the grasses wave and shake and warn them that Green Snake is sneaking toward them, or it is just Moving Day in the White Foot Mouse family, then Mother White Foot calls her babies, you just ought to see them scramble up her sleek sides, and then off she runs, as fast as she can tear, the children clinging to her with their strong little claws."

"THE CHILDREN CLING TO HER WITH THEIR STRONG LITTLE CLAWS."

"Good for little Mother White Foot," exclaimed the boy. "Do you know, Fox, I don't believe I shall ever again dislike the Mouse family so much. After this I shall remember how brave mice mothers are. Now, Mother Field Mouse could have gotten away long before you."

Suddenly the boy remembered what he was saying, and clapped his hand to his mouth, but it was too late. Cutie Fox had heard him. The bushy-tailed one sat down upon his haunches screwed up his eyes and looked at him with a cunning leer.

"What was that you said, boy? Something about Mother Field Mouse, I believe, unless my ears deceived me. What do you know about Mothr Field Mouse, and say, by the way, now I think of it, it was strange that I found you with your head in the clump of grass. Why were you on your knees? What were you looking at? There is something strange about all this. Why haven't you told me?"

HIGH-PRICE SPECIALS TAKE SENSATIONAL LEAP

Speculative Interest Revolves About Small Group That Soars Skyward

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York, May 19—Railroad stocks, strong; industrials, strong; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, steady; call money, 4 per cent; grain, steady; copper, firm; oil, weak; cotton, strong; rubber, steady; sugar, firm; pig iron, steady, and foreign exchange, steady.

New York, May 19—Most of the speculative interest in the stock market today revolved around a small number of the high-priced market specialties, the "blue chips" which have been leading a sensational gallop in the local market for a year or more.

Backed by powerful pools and professionals, the stocks under accumulation were again boosted five to 15 points in an extremely heavy turnover. Shorts in Baldwin Locomotive, General Motors, Commercial Solvents, Cast Iron Pipe and other high-priced specialties saw their stocks rise to the highest prices of the year in a burst of bullish enthusiasm.

As in previous sessions, the movement of stock prices had no particular relation to the business news of the day, except that reports and announcements evidenced the continuance of high volume production and distribution of goods.

General Motors ran up to its objective of 200 early in the day but there was a larger volume of sales below that price than from any above it in the first three hours. Baldwin Locomotive carried its advance above 216. New gains of five to eight points were scored by Cast Iron Pipe, American Smelting, and Commercial Solvents, which market rumors attributed to the return of William C. Durant to the market.

As a rule these speculative favorites were quite ready to absorb profit taking and short selling in good volume, with only moderate shrinkages in market values.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A sluggish market, due, marketmen say, to the unusual wet weather, continues in Marion markets. Fruit and vegetables are moving slow while sales in retail meat continue brisk. A shortage in new cabbage and old potatoes, with corresponding high prices was the report today. New cabbage is selling at 12 cents and old potatoes as high as 75 cents a peck.

Strawberries are a little more plentiful today but are also facing a sluggish market. Good Kentucky and Tennessee berries are selling at 25 and 30 cents. Pineapples continue to sell at 25 and 30 cents with a slight demand.

BREAK UP LOTTERY

Game Netted Profit of $1,000 Daily to Operators, Say Police

Cleveland, May 19—With the arrest of Leonard Billingsley, 25, police today believe they have broken up an alleged lottery game here, which had netted an average daily profit of $1,000 to the operators. Holders of tickets in the alleged game of chance, which sold at 50 cents each, compared the figures on their ticket with the daily United States Treasury balance, printed in newspapers. If the first four digits of the number printed on the ticket corresponded with the last four of the treasury balance for that date, the holder was entitled to the prize, which ranged from $50 to $350.

Police say a large number of high school pupils had been purchasing the tickets. When arrested, Billingsley was in possession of 4,000 tickets, according to detectives.
